In recent years there has been a radically increased interest in the Mayan calendar and especially its end in 2012, and so, many ask what that tells us about the future. Some people have an intuitive sense that the end of the Mayan calendar will bring a shift in consciousness. The waves of consciousness brought by the Mayan calendar are thought by many to define the framework of our existence and what we may or may not be able to create in any given era.

The name Conscious Convergence, which begins on July 17-18, 2010, alludes to the Harmonic Convergence, a mind-opening gathering on August 17-18, 1987. The important commonality between the two Convergences is that they both reflect energy shifts that herald the respective transformations of consciousness brought by these waves. Put in other terms: What the Harmonic Convergence meant to the quantum jump to the eighth wave, the Conscious Convergence will mean to the quantum jump to the ninth wave.

This ninth level of the universe is designed to generate unity consciousness. The manifestation of unity consciousness brought by the ninth level will require an intention on the part of human beings to co-create this. The Conscious Convergence is for those that are willing to set the intention to create unity consciousness in the ninth wave of the Mayan calendar system.

A shift to unity consciousness is one that transcends the dualities of the past and aids human beings to see the unity of all things. This kind of unity consciousness can be beneficial to the planet, and to mankind, in that it leads to the transcendence of all separation (between man and woman, man and nature, ruler and ruled, east and west, etc). As the Hopi saying goes, "we are the ones that we have been waiting for." If we make the commitment to do so, we can co-create unity consciousness with the ninth wave. As the student of the law of attraction will know, all manifestation begins with an intention, and without an intention there is no result. The Conscious Convergence, A Wave of Unity, is for all those who intend to manifest unity consciousness.

Join with us in a natural, rural setting on August 22 to explore, celebrate, and unite in ceremony around this cosmic event, The Conscious Convergence.
